He grew up on the streets, where everyone treated him like shit because of his race. One day he stole from an important person and made a lot of money and later made a pact with the great old one, becoming evil dark mage that society percieved him to be.

When he was 35 he took a simple job guarding a cart of provisions for some easy money. But the cart was attacked, and when chasing down the goblins he ended up coming face to face with their bugbear leader, who viscously ended him. However due to sheer willpower and need for revenge, he awoke again.
